

REWIND

Is a comedy about John, an ordinary, likeable schoolboy who thinks he has got problems: at home, at school, with his friends etc.

Things just don't seem to work out right for him. They don't go how he would like them to and John thinks the main problem is himself. He wishes he could change things, that he could be different, that he could do things differently.

One day he gets a new phone. A new very unusual phone with a special App that says "Do you want to try that again? If so, then press me and make a wish." Of course, John presses it and he discovers that with his new App he can rewind time, stop it, pause it, play it again.

But, can John change his life and be more like the person he would like to be?

BACKCHAT

Is the teenage/young adult social media explosion. It is everywhere and on everything. This is the first ever road show where the audience can see the people behind all the Tweets, the Apps, and all the Grams in the flesh.

Backchat is a way of life for countless young people. Backchat's presenters are household names, their opinions are taken as gospel, their advice followed diligently, their articles, reports, and stories are awaited with bated breath. No teenager or young adult can really have a point of view that hasn't been, at least partly, formed by Backchat.

Backchat is an interactive comedy in ETC's style comprised of sketches all around a common theme.
